DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USPN 6,875,950 to Naumov et al in view of USPN 6,146,813 to Girard et al. Naumov et al describe (Front Page and Figure 5) the instant claimed apparatus components. Girard et al describe (column 15, lines 1-14) the laser combined with the holding tray and the ability to measure resistance during the process for process feedback. Such operation of the Naumov et al apparatus is capable of performing an annealing process for annealing an amorphous silicon thin film, however operation of the Naumov et al apparatus upon amorphous silicon thin film is not required for the rejection of apparatus features. Probe features are described by Naumov et al (column 17, lines 18-50) and the probe operation is as a measurement terminal.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USPN 6,875,950 to Naumov et al in view of USPN 6,146,813 to Girard et al as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of USPN 6,171,378 to Manginell et al. The use of a particular measuring module would have been obvious at the time applicant's invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art because the probe and the use thereof for measuring and feedback of electrical characteristics is disclosed by Naumov et al and because resistance measurement and control feedback in annealing of silicon thin film is well known in the art as disclosed by Manginell et al (Claim 1).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed July 12, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that both Naumov et al and Girard are non-analogous with respect to annealing amorphous silicon into polysilicon. This argument is not convincing. The instant apparatus claims are not limited by the function of the apparatus in a process of annealing silicon into polysilicon.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Joerg et al describe feedback circuitry.
